The first Sphere of Books is the publication of this early example of conceptual art. 12mo, the original illustrated wrappers as released. Signed by both John Lennon and Yoko Ono on the front free endpaper. In almost perfect condition with some light friction and folds on the back panel. The Sphere integrates the theme of Ono's short book The Bottom of 1966. Rare and desirable signed as Ono and Lennon, famous as an early example of conceptual art, containing a series of event evaluations that replace a physical work of art - traditional promotions in the trade of artists - with instructions that a person may, or may not, want to accept. Grapefruit is one of the monuments of conceptual art in the early 1960s, it has a lyrical, poetic dimension that distinguishes it from other conceptual artists. Her approach to art was accepted only when white people such as Kosut and Weiner came and did almost the same thing as Yoko, but made them respectable and collectible (David Unfortunately, this item has been sold. Signed by Ono on the front page. London: Peter Owen Limited, 1970. Hardback in general is in very good condition with a very good DJ. The beautiful red covers have gilded inscriptions on the spine and are protected behind the BVV illustrated DJ. The volume displays minimal overall wear and tear for the covers and interior, with little wear and tear for the DJ. Brick red fabric boards have a bright gilding on the spine and minimal evidence of shelves around the perimeter. The binding is safe and dense. The internal pages are free of writing and intentional signs, and generally white and bright. Textblock edges bright with just a couple of DJ light signs features a BV photo of Ono on the front and back with a common light of scuffing and contamination, with more scuffs to the edge of the foot, and 1/4 of the spinal foot injury. SC20190724 288 pages. The 5.5 x 5.5 inch Grapefruit is an innovative example of conceptual art before the style was adopted by renowned artists. Written as an artist's book, that represents 100 event accounts - a kind of performance differential art from happening by its limited duration and its simplicity - with instructions given to the reader to perform. David Bourdon is considered a monument of conceptual art of the 1960s. Yoko Ono (1933) is a Japanese artist, writer and peace activist. John Lennon's widow, she is an experimental and avant-garde artist. Conclusion of the cover and chapter 1; Burn this book after you read it. Features intro John Lennon. An image of the seller about this item: Vurntemaum Press, Tokyo, 1964. First edition. One in 500 copies of the printed, preceding UK edition for four years. INSCRIBED by Yoko Ono on the first form: For Elena, / 1966, opening / Judson Church Gallery / NEW York, NY / Yoko Ono. Author, poet and conceptual book of the artist. The inscription refers to the premiere of Stone on March 10, 1966, shared Wednesday, held by Ono's then-husband, Anthony Cox. Michael Mason supplied sound forms, John Hendricks supplied the air, and Jeff Perkins filmed the post. For its part, it promoted Eye Bags: black bags that participants crawled inside and could see through, though they couldn't be seen inside the audience- in fact reverse the mirror with one way. Ono's first book, an innovative conceptual piece consists of event evaluations, a series of actions, ideas or instructions that interact with physical works of art and can be performed by another person (example of a piece called a painting exist only when it is copied or photographed. Let people copy or your paintings. Destroy the originals.) Although several signed copies have appeared in the trade in the last couple of decades, most of them are common captions of the reference season, such as 1965, Autumn. It's the only one we are faced with a modern inscription that can be accurately defined at the time and place, and most importantly, one of Ono's own installations. Very good or better in the original white perfectly tied wrapper. The wrappers are slightly contaminated and the foxes, with some of the usual wrinkles produced on the spine. However, a dense, square copy. In a lovely black fabric cot box box with a leather spine label called gilding. Munro and Hendrix, Yes Yoko Ono, pages 82-83, 313. Hendrix, Codex Fluxus, pages 418-419. Celant, Book as a work of art, page 61. Seller Inventory No. 133679 For more information about this seller Contact this seller 2. 2.
